MEDICINAL.

No Whiskey!

Brown's Iron Bitters is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

Brown's Iron BITTERS is guaranteed to be a nonintoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881. Gents:—The foolish wast-ing of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

Brown's Iron Bitters has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

Career of a Man Eating Tigress.

For more than a year past a maneating tigress has been the terror and scourge of a small tract of hill country in western Garbwal, which looks down across the Ganges upon the sacred shrine of Rikhikesh From first to last she is said to have killed between fifty and sixty human beings. A considerably higher estimate, indeed, is current in the neighborhood. Last year she became a proclaimed offender and a reward of four hundred rupees was set upon her head. So widely infamous did she become that it is somewhat surprising she did not obtain more attention from the sporting manhood of our cantonments, particularly when it is considered her haunts were within two marches of so well-known and accessible a place as Hurdwar. Such attempts, however, as were made to circumvent her, whether on the part of forest hunters and others, or natives, invariably failed. Her wariness and activity seemed to be altogether extraordinary. From some spot on the hillside she would watch a group at work in the fields and regularly stalk them work in the fields, and regularly stalk them by careful and circuitous approaches; then, dashing in among them, she would pick off her victim, and in a few seconds be down the side of one hill and under covert of another almost before his companions had time to look around. The sound of bamboo-cutting was so well known to attract her that that industry for the time entirely ceased within her beat. Of course occasional failures are recorded against her; one plucky fellow cudgeled her off the friend sha signed by his side with a least in the friend sha signed by his side with a least in the friend sha signed by his side with a least in the first of the she siezed by his side with a lathi; in another instance she abandoned her prey owing to the lucky circumstance of a mouthful of the bamboo bundle on his back failing to please her taste. But these were rare exceptions to the monotonous tale of slaughter. One of the very latest cases was a particularly painful one. A peasant's wife objected to go to work in the fields, or rather cultivated Boot and Shoe Emporium. eading her fear of this beast ; the husband forced or persuaded her to go promising to accompany her and stay near her while she worked. She was carried off before his eyes. People on the lookout for this tigress with fire-arms could never find Consisting of all the varieties for Ladies', Gentleher; cattle she never killed; to elephants her haunts were inaccessible, and it seemed clear that if she was ever destroyed it would be off the corpse of a human being or the carcass of a langur, the only animal besides man on which she was known to prey. And so it turned out. About a fortnight ago the senior assistant commissioner of Garhwal obtained the services of a dozen Goorkhas from the regiment quartered at Dehra; these plucky little men had only been a day or two across the river, when on the 9th ultimo, the tigress killed again another woman. They started for the spot in the afternoon, four of them going along the hillside in advance, while the rest of the party kept along the nullah; the tigress, startled by the latter, broke in front of the former, and luckily having her back broken by the first shot of the volley fired at her, succumbed without a struggle. -Allabad India Pioneer.

HER FIRST BABY .- We do not know how true this is, but a neighbor vouches for it, and it is as good as any one of the adventures in the Spoopendyke family. A young mother, who is rich in her hubby's affections and pocketbook, is the owner of a three months' old sunbeam. The young mother, to have the offspring receive proper nourishment, resolved to take sole charge of it. It was her first child, and having been reared in luxury, with plenty of servants to wait on her, she did not handle the contract with as much success as some other women. The other day she undertook to give the child a bath in a small foot-tub. The lady's mother, who lives with her, passing through the room, dipped her finger in the water, and told her daughter it was too cold for the little one, and that she would have to warm it. Instead of adding a little warm water, she placed the bath tub with the baby in it on a small gas stove and waited for further developments. The developments came as soon as the bottom of the tub began to get extra warm. The offspring gave one yell, while the fond mother, grandmother and the two servants rushed to the rescue. The grandmother took the blessed baby and placed a bandful of flour where it would do most good. In the future, grandmother will look after the child, while the mother reads up on the cares of a mother, and how to bring up children .- Kingston Freeman,
